Room 5 Week 5 Monday 11th May

Good morning everyone, here are your activities for today. Stay in touch as we love to hear from you. Enjoy! Laugh! Dance!

Four Happy Penguins

Beryl stops at a gas station to fill up. A man who works there sees four penguins in the back seat and asks, "Why do you have four penguins in your car?"

Beryl says, "I stopped at a red light and they climbed in! What should I do with them?"

The man thinks for a second and says, "Maybe you should take them to the zoo."

"That's a good idea. I'll do that," says Beryl.

A few days later Beryl returns to the gas station. The man sees the same four penguins in the car. But now they're wearing sunglasses!

"What's going on?" asks the man. "I thought you were taking those penguins to the zoo."

"I did take them to the zoo!" answered Beryl. "We had such a great time, and today I thought I'd take them to the beach!"

Now that was a funny story!

For writing today I want you to draw a picture from the story, then write the questions out with your answer below. Choose answer 1, 2, or 3 to the questions.

Why were the penguins wearing sunglasses?

1. The zoo was giving out free sunglasses?
2. They had eye problems?
3. They were going to a sunny beach?

How did the penguins come to be in the car?

1. They were hiding in Beryl's garage?
2. They hopped in when the car stopped at the lights.
3. It doesn't say in the story.

If one car transported four penguins to the beach, how many happy feet would there be in a car?

Then more penguins wanted to go the beach, so four more cars carrying four penguins happily drove to the beach. How many happy feet would there be altogether at the beach? 16, 24, 32, 40

In your home work packs you received I had put two weeks of spelling words into your notebooks. Keep learning those and you will become

Super Spellers
