

Kaeo School at Home

Kia ora all,

Well here we all are in lock down again. I know it can be a frustrating time but the government is acting very quickly and responsibly so hopefully it won't be too long till I see you all again :).

Here is your first at home activity sheet. If you zoom through these tasks you can click the links at the bottom of the page and they will take you to some extra activities. Have fun and remember there is no pressure, please just work through these at your own pace.

Please feel free to contact me via my email below if you have any questions or just to send some of your child's work through; I'd love to see it :)

Thanks, Dessa Harris

Reading Fun and Games

Find one of your favourite books and record yourself reading it out loud with expression. Afterwards listen to yourself and consider what you need to change to sound more interesting. Could you do voices for characters, change your volume, or alter your speed? Once you have thought about what you will change, try again. Keep going until you feel like you are reading in an interesting way.

Pattern Brain Tease

Show your working step by step as you solve this problem.

August scootered around Kerikeri for exercise. The first street he passed had 121 houses on it.

He then scootered past 3 more streets, each with 121 houses. How many houses would he have past on his scooter in total (don't forget to include the first 1). Extra tricky extension: What if he did this 3 more times? How many houses would he have passed then?

Report writing

Go to natgeokids.com and click on discover and animals. Then read about an animal of your choice and make some notes about interesting facts you find. Remember notes are in your own words and are short. Then write a short report on the topic with all the information you have found. Watch the short video below to help you understand how to write a report.

Spelling Staircase

See how big you can build your spelling staircase. Each time you go down a level you need to add 1 letter. See how many words you can make.

Tip: At the start it is okay to use a 2 letter or 3 letter blend; this will help you create larger words later on.
